McVeigh and Schurz Put in an Appearance on the Scene-The News and Gossip of the Nations's Capital.

Washington, May 9 .- (Special.)-But lew senators and members were at the white house during Mr. Cleveland's reception hour before the cabinet meeting this morning. Those there, however, seemed pleased with the new order of things. Mr. Bynum, of Indiana, talked to the newspaper men about the order, expressing himself in strong terms of approval. "It has become necessary," said he, "on account of the press of this patronage business. If I were the president I would carry it still further and make it apply equally to all of the departments. I would have every communication with regard to office placed in writing and sent to the proper I would have it understood that no member of congress would have snything to do with recommendations to office, and I would exclude not only the constituents but the members and sena-tors as well, from both the white house and the executive departments. Then when it became necessary to fill an office consul-tations could be had with a member or snybody else as to the fitness of the can-didates. It would be understood at home that the congressman could not recom-mend anybody, and we would be relieved of a great deal of work and there would be fewer candidates. At the same time, when we were called upon for information we would hold a club over no one and have none held over us. Better officials would be the result and time would not be wasted in valueless interviews, as at present, which ought to be given to more imrtant matters. The pressure for office greater now than it ever was before. ouble what it was eight years ago. is not the congressmen's fault nor the ople's fault. It is simply a legitimate result of the growth of the country.' No Appointments Yesterday. No appointments were announced today. Mr. Cleveland has been very busy with his cabinet officers deciding upon names. Many have been fixed, but the appointments were not made out in time for announcement today, owing to the cabinet meeting, which not adjourn until after noon. Tomorrow quite a batch is expected to be posted up at the white house. Among them may be one or two Georgians.

Will They Be Welcomed? Wayne McVeagh and Carl Schurz are here. The advent of these recent converts has given rise to much speculation on the part of the old rock-ribbed democrats as to object of their visit and what they will take away with them.

A disgruntled old war horse, mad because he has been ruled off the white house grass, observed tonight: "I suppose the mugwumps will be invited to the white house and given a front seat in the synagogue, on the pavement and read the president's

Tom Has the Inside Track. The office seekers have not only been shut out of the white house, but the great American public is now excluded from the grounds for several hours every afternoon. This is to enable Baby Ruth to enjoy an evening's outling upon the lawn without being bothered by an important and officiency by by an impertinent and affectionate public. Mrs. Cleveland didn't object to Baby Ruth being kissed by such a handsome and dapper little fellow as Colonel Tom Gibson, of The Augusta News, but Baby. Ruth herself objects to being fondled by the average American citizen, and as they are not all Tom Gibsons the grounds have to be closed.

A Fat Snap Going Begging. Minister Stevens has refused to remain in Hawaii any longer. He has notified the state department that he will leave for home on the 20th. Mr. Blount would not accept the mission, and the president is now looking for a minister to fill this $7,500 place. Is not there a Georgian who can do it?

The Axman's Popularity.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Maxwell is perhaps the most popular officer of the present administration. He is a princely headsman. There is nothing he es so well as chopping off the heads of republican postmasters to make room for good democrats. All he wants is a statement that the present incumbent is an of-fensive partisan. With that his head drops. He is appointing democratic postmaster the hundred. From two to three hundred re commissioned daily.

Personally Mr. Maxwell is as clever as ment That Blount Will Succeed Stevens.

Washington, May 9.—Officials of the state department tonight contradict the pretentions heretofore made that ex-Representativ Blount would be appointed minister_resident to Hawaii. It has been supposed that Minister Stevens would remain in Hawaii for the legation until the 24th of this month, at which one he had announced his attention of sailing for America. It is not known that Mr. Stevens was instructed to forthwith turn over the legal papers to Commissioner Blount. There is reason to believe that Mr. Stevens was not allowed to remain in Hawaii for the legation until the 24th instant because of his activity in behalf of annexation. It is further stated at the department that Messrs. Bowen and Sewall, who went to Honolulu shortly after Commissioner Blount's arrival, have been active in their efforts to stimulate sentiment on the island in favor of annexation and there is reason to believe that they have sought to create the impression in so doing they were representing the president.

Secretary Gresham has informed Mr. Blount that the president repudiates everything said and done by these gentlemen. It will be remembered that Mr. Sewall was an applicant for the position of third assistant secretary of state under the present administration, but failed to secure the appointment.

"Deacon" White Righting Himself. he is active in the use of the ax. There is no red tape about his office. He differs Postmaster General Bissell in that he is always willing to take a congressman's word for offensive partisanship without requiring a definite and minute explanation. Bissell, by his civil service notions and slow action, is not making himself popular with the members. He insists too much upon definite charges and proof of each, which is troublesome to prepare. But he will probably recover from this when the Weather gets a little warmer. Olney May Resign.

Attorney General Olney is the most dissfied member of the cabinet. There has been talk of his resigning, but it is not probhe will do so for the present.

r. Olney is a good lawyer, but he has been anything of a politician. He tanger as much about politics as a preacher knows of poker. (I don't mean all breachers, but a good old Methodist.) he was tendered the attorney generwas not inclined to accept. He so told Secretary Lamont, who, as Mr. Cleveland's representative, called upon him in Boston to make the tender. Mr. Lamont, however, argued that there was practically ly nothing to do, and as he was rich should spend a few years in a pleasant social atmosphere, for a rest, it would be decidedly beneficial to him, and, besides an honor which no man should refuse. Olney was impressed with Colonel Lamont's statement that there was but little to do, and accepted—for a rest. Since the day he entered the office he has not had a moment of rest. At a cabinet meeting last week when ordinary and other

Albany, N. Y., May 9.—The remains of Carlyle Harris were buried in the Rural cemetery here this afternoon. The lot was purchased several days ago, but by whom it could not be ascertained. Mrs. Harris and her son, who accompanied the body, refused to talk. After the burial Harris's last statement sent by the warden to the prison department of the state was given

Harris in this, his last writing, opened with a reference to the review of his case by the governor. Harris canvasses the review, refers to his giving himself up when he learned of a warrant for his arrest, recurs to his refusal of proffered means of escape from Sing Sing and then says:

So, how is that, in a case where so many facts and the entire behavior of the defendant all invite executive elemency, together with the petition of over 50,000 citizens, among them many who are prominent in the nation and state, such elemency should be denied?

Because the action of the with a reference to the review of his case by Washington, May 9.—One effect of the president's order closing the executive mansion to office seekers has been to cause the crowd, who usually thronged the white house to change their point of attack from the president nimself to his cabinet officers. This was noticeable to some extent yesterday. There was a perceptible increase in the number of callers at each department and a good deal of time was consumed in their reception. It is predicted that if this continues, all the members of the cabinet will adopt precisely similar rules to that which yesterday threw such consternation into the ranks of the white house habitues. The same reasons which actuated the president in his order apply to as great an extent to the members of his cabinet. In the state and treasury departments, especially, nation and state, such elemency should be denied?

Because the action of the court was not justified by the facts in the case, and hence public outcry must be slienced by a seeming justification of the court outside of the facts. When there was no doubt of guilt Governor Flower has not hesitated to interfere, as in the case of James Minnaugh, about a year ago, but in that case the facts justified the court, and there was no Recorder Smyth clamoring to be upheld.

Carlyle Harris, living, would be a daily menace to the career of Smyth, Welman and others. Dead, he was 500n forgotten and their affairs may go on as before.

There is an idea in the minds of many that at the time of my wife's death I desired marriage with some other woman. Such a person has never been found, nor does she exist.

It has been reported in the newspapers that during my stay here in Sing Sing I have scoffed at the devotions of my fellow prisoners and indulged in irreverent jokes. This is cruelly false. I still enjoy the hopes of my childhood's faith and believe that I shall not be misjudged through all eternity. No one had so many reasons—all sentiment or love aside—for desiring my wife to live as I had. She would have brought me money and professional success; she would have graced my home, and had I known of her callers as threatens to be the case, it is feared that the business of the country will suffer.

Secretary Gresham found if necessary yesterday to deny himself absolutely to callers for the greater part of the morning in order to give his personal attention to questions arising from the trouble in the conditions in some of the South and Central American countries. Others of the cabinet, have already found it necessary to do the same thing on occasions, and if there is any large increase in the crowd demanding audience with them in the near future, a repetition of President Cleveland's famous order may be expected of them.

The hours between 10 o'clock and the time for the assembling of the cabinet was devoted by the president this morning to interviews with senators and representatives. Unlike former days these dignitaries came alone and not attended by the following of enthusiastic constituents anxious to see the president. As a result, the congressmen were able to transact business with the president instead of the time being consumed in making presentation of politicians, recollection of whom faded from the president's mind as their forms disappeared from view. Without exception the congressmen were delighted with the president's new rule, and expressed themselves accordingly.

"It is a gilt-edged rule," remarked Senator or love aside—for desiring aly wife to live as I had. She would have brought me money and professional success; she would have graced my home, and had I known of her sad habit it would have been my happiness to shield and cure her. I have now to dic. The manner of my death is of small moment to me. I have waited patiently so long as there was the remotest chauce of obtaining justice, refusing to run away even under sentence of death.

May God in His mercy biess and guard those I leave behind and give them peace.

And now, face to face with the greatest mystery known to man—knowing that no concealment or untruth can mitigate my end—I do solemnly declare that I am innocent of the crime for which I am condemned to die.

I beg that those who think or speak or write of me in years to come will do so as kindly as they can, not forgetting that, when

THREE NEGROES LYNCHED. They Murdered and Robbed a Business Man at Bearsen, Ark.

Camden, Ark., May 9.—Three negroes were lynched at Bearsen, this county, early this morning for the murder and assault made Saturday upon Jesse Norman, a prominent young business man of that place. Norman died from the result of his wounds, which were inflicted with an axe upon his head as he was returning home from his which were inflicted with an axe upon his head as he was returning home from his store at midnight. The mob, consisting of three hundred men, was sure it had the right parties, as a pocket book and other personal effects of Norman's were found upon them. The purpose of the assassins was robbery.

The negroes were taken from the officers between midnight and dawn. They begged for mercy and for their lives, but none was shown.

from view. Without exception the congressmen were delighted with the president's new rule, and expressed themselves accordingly.

"It is a gilt-edged rule," remarked Senntor Jones, of Arkansas, "and its operation will give general satisfaction, I am sure. Any one who has seen the president overwhelmed by the crowds day after day will realize the necessity for the adoption of it."

Representative Bynum, of Indiana, added his indorsement of the president's action. "I am in Tavor of going still further in that direction, and widening the scope of reform inaugurated by Mr. Cleveland. I think it would be a good plan of reforming the whole system of dispensing patropage."

"What would you suggest?" was fasked. "Simply this: I would relieve members of congress of the duty of making recommendations for appointments and require aspirants for positions to present their applications and indorsements. The papers would be placed on file in the departments, and when it became time to make that particular appointment I would call in the congressmen and ask them what they knew of each candidate on the list, I p his way there would be fewer applications for appointment and congressmen would be relieved of the necessity of engaging in local squabbles. They would not have a club held ever them by constituents who demanded indorsement of their claims, but would be given an opportunity to suggest to the cabinet officers the abilities and fitness of the various applicants. There is no reason why a man's term of congressional service should be affected by his success in getting appointments."

Mr. Bynum hopes that the president will not delay calling the extra session of congress until September. He favors calling the session early in June and adjourning over August and September, the two hot months.

Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, expressed the onion that the president's order was Club' Convention.

Two Lives Lost by the Carelessness of a Street Railroad Company.

Akron, O., May 9.—Last night Gus Schuler hired a rig frim Liveryman Deitz, and with Miss Martna Kline, a lady friend, started out for a drive to Curahoga falls. The street railroad company is constructing its track over the big bridge that crosses the river just above the glens, and has torn a portion of the bridge away. It seems that the danger signals were not out and Schuler attempted to drive over the bridge. This morning the borse was discovered standing on a ledge about thirty feet below the bridge. The buggy, almost a total wreck, was lodged in another piace. Thus far no trace has been discovered of Schuler and Miss Kline. The bridge is one hundred feet above the water and the couple must have above the water and the couple must have met instant death.

Emperor William Causes Another Sensation in Germany,

"If the Coming Reichstag Should Refuse to Adopt It,

"I WILL CARRY IT INTO EFFECT."

His Words Cause Great Excitement Among the People-Comment of the German Press-Other Foreign News.

Berlin, May 9.-While reveiwing the troops in the field at Tempelhofer today, the German emperor ordered the principal officers of the imperial guard to gather around him and addressed them as follows: "I have been seriously disappointed in the patriotism of the late reichstag. I hope the coming reichstag will adopt the military bill, but if the coming reichstag should re fuse to adopt it, I am determined to carry the bill into effect, despite the unpatriotic opposition. I know myself that I am alone with the federated princes and the people."

The speech of the emperor is causing enormous excitement among the people.

It appears in The North German Universal Gazette in doubleleaded prominence. Those who heard the emperor speak say that he spoke with unusual emphasis, pausing at every word in order to convey the sense of his determination to abide by his declaration. There is a profound and widespread impression that the emperor would not hesitate to risk a conflict with the new reichstag should it prove hostile to the bill. The emperor's concluding words in addressing his officers were:

"I felt the necessity to tell you candidly my decision as I told you my hopes when the bill was first proposed."

The officers who heard the emperor's words maintained absolute silence, although evidently in deep sympathy with the kaisr's views. Leading men in German politics who have heard of the emperor's speech now consider that he has embarked on a policy of Prussian high toryism, and that the chances of the freissinnige party to bring about a moderate liberal era have van-

Paris, May 9.—In the Behring sea arbitration Mr. Coudert further demonstrated the necessity of putting a stop to pelagic sealing. In support of his argument as to the seal life and the danger of its complete extinction, Mr. Coudert quoted from Professor Huxley and other naturalists and scientists. He contended that the modus vivendi entered into by the United States and Great Britain was a temporary abdication of American rights which the United States confidently left to the tribunal of arbitration to uphold. In dealing with the question of damages advanced by Great Britain, Mr. Coudert said that the British claims with respect of a prospective catch were untenable. When Mr. Coudert had finished his speech Baron de Courcel, the president of the tribunal, said to him:

"You have captivated our attention by a remarkable display of talent. Nashville, Tenn. May 9 .- (Special.)-The state senate, sitting as a court imachment with Chief Justice Benjamin I. Lea presiding, met at 9 o'clock this mornng to try Judge Julius Dubose, of the Shelby county criminal court upon the thirty-six charges preferred by the house of represen

It was found that article 21 was defective in that certain exhibits had not been furnished the court nor copied on the senate journal. Attorneys for the defense thereupon offered a resolution that preliminary arguments and action by the court on the various motions of defendant to quash the articles of impeachment be disposed with but this in way way. be disposed with, but this in no way to prejudice the rights of the defendant and he is to have the fall but the defendant and he

The special train will leave the Crescent City Sunday night, May 28th. The ceremonies there previous to the departure will be brief. Governor Foster, on behalf of the state, will, in a short address, commit the remains to the custody of the escort, which will accompany them to Virginia. The funeral train will reach Montgomery, Ala., at 6 Welock a. m. Monday the body will be borne from the capitol building and placed on the front portico, where Mr. Davis took the oath as president of the provisional government. Leaving Montgomery at 11 o'clock, the train will reach Atlanta at 4:30 o'clock p. m., and there will be another halt of about four hours. The casket will be borne to the capitol of Georgia and there will be some simple ceremonies with a parade and perhaps a short oration. There will be a fifteen minutes' stop at Greenville, S. C., to afford the people there a nopportunity to testify their affection, and the train will proceed thence to Raleigh, N. C., where elaborate preparations eigh, N. C., where elaborate preparations are being made for a mammoth demonstration. There will be an address and other exercises at the capitol building. Governor Carr is directing the movements at this point. Leaving kaleigh at 2 o'clock p. m. the train is scheduled to reach Richmond at 11 o'clock on the night of the 30th. Arriving here the casket will be placed on a hearse and under the escort of troops and veterans, the remains will be taken to the capitol where they will lie in state until the morning of the 31st. The public school children will visit the capitol and passing through will deposit flowers on the casket.

through will deposit flowers on the casket.

The reinterment will take place in the afternoon. Mrs. Davis and both of her daughters. Miss Winnie and Mrs. J. A. Hlayes, will be here; so will Mr. Hayes. Mrs. Davis is in feeble health and will not go to New Orleans, but both of her daugaters will do so in company with Mayor Ellyson and perhaps a few others from here, who will make the trip.

An observation car of new design with entire glass sides, will be fitted up for the occasion. The governors of the states through which the funeral train will pass, have been requested to meet it at the lines of their respective states and escort it to the edge of their territory.

TWO MEN BLOWN TO DEATH.

A Tragic Conclusion to the May Week

Savannah, Ga., May 9 .- (Special.)-Durng the fireworks exhibition at Thunderbolt touight a large load of fireworks exploded killing two men who were on it. One was a white man named Masters, in the employ of Pain & Sons, who were conducting the display, and the other was a Savannah negro assisting him. The men had just crossed the river and had sent off about a dozen rockets, when a pile of fireworks laying loose on the barge exploded from the stream of fire from the rockets and blew the two men off the harge just the rive the Sam Wylly, Pain & Sons's electrician, was standing on the bank watering the dis-play and when he saw the explosion he cried, "Save my men," and was so wild it took six men to hold him. He recovered later from the shock.

This put an end to the May week display at Taunderholt and is the first accident ever had in connection with the celebra-tions.

Charleston, S. C., May 9.—(Special.)—In the United States court today argument was resumed in the Augusta and Knoxville railroad case for the appointment of a receiver.

Judge Tompkins, of Atlanta, was heard in behalf of the Central Trust Company, of New York, Mr. Charlton, of Savannah, representing the trustees and Mr. Cunningham, of Savannah, in reply. It is probable that the case will be given to the court tomorrow, but there is no indication of when a decree may be rendered.

This case is merely a continuation of the proceedings instituted in Georgia and this state recently which resulted in the making of J. H. Averill receiver of the Port Royal and Angusia railroad. It is generally believed that the present suit will result in transferring the receivership of the Augusta and Knoxville railroad from Mr. Comer to Colonel Averill.

An Unfavorable Week for Cotton, but All Right for Wheat.

Right for Wheat.

Washington, May 9.—This is the fourth continuous cold week throughout the central valleys, including both the winter and spring wheat regions, and the greater portion of the cotton region. While the week has been generally unfavorable to cotton on account of excessive rains and cold, the weather has been more favorable in the wheat and corn regions of the northwest, where seeding, although late, is in general progress, and it is nearly completed in the Dakotas. The detailed crop conditions in the several states, taken as a whole, are more favorable than those of the previous week.

An Exciting Chase After an Escaped Convict.

THREE POLICE OFFICERS BAG HIM

After Running Him for Miles-He Swam the River Twice-Caught Without Clothes-Two Bullets in Him.

Sitting happily on the banks of the Chattahoochee river clinging to a big fishing pole, Jim Jones, the desperado escaped convict, who gave the officers such a sharp fight on Saturday night, was found yesterday af ternoon enjoying himself hugely notwithstanding the three bullet holes in his body.

Despite the bullets and bullet holes in his carcass, Jones gave the officers a far more exciting chase yesterday than he gave them Saturday night, when Mounted Officers Barrett and Lanford sent seven bullets after his fleeing figure. Twice Jones plunged into and swam the river and up and down on either side of the stream he ran for miles, the officers close on his heels all the while.

Jones is a life convict from South Carolina, who made his escape several months ago and has since been hiding in Atlanta. Saturday Mounted Officers Barrett and Lanford learned that Jones was living at a house on Simpson street with a woman named Emma Jones. Saturday night they secreted themselves in the house and waited for Jones to put in an appearance. They had been waiting about two hours when Jones came in and Officer Lanford covered him with a pistol and placed him under arrest. Jones sprang at the officer with an open knife and was fired upon three times. Run-knife and was fired upon three times. Running into the adjoining room he was fired at four times by Officer Barrett. The negro finally made his escape by throwing a heap of clothing over Lanford's head. It was thought certain that Jones was fatally wounded and would be found dead.

But yesterday the two officers learned that Jones was hiding near the Chattahoochee river, and, after going off duty yesterday afternoon, Barrett and Lanford, accompanied by Sergeant White, rode out to the river. On the banks of the river they found Jones fishing. At sight of the officers he leaped to his feet. They were almost upon him when he first saw them and he could not run away. The only way to escape the officers was to swim the river and the next instant Jones had plunged into the river and was pulling for the opposite shore. Fearing that he would be fired upon, Jones kept his (head hidden under water as much of the time as he could while swimming the river.

The three officers galloped down the river to a bridge a quarter of a mile distant, and when they reached the bank where Jones had crawled out from the river the convict was nearly a quarter of a tille dis-tant running at full speed. The officers separated and by circling around succeeded n turning Jones back toward the river, fter riding about two miles. Jones made for the river like the wind and proved himself to be a fine sprinter. Reaching the river, he again plunged in, and, exhausted as he was,

A second time the officers had to ride down A second time the officers had to ride down to the bridge, but in a very few minutes they were across the river and hot in pursuit of the convict. A long chase and Jones was once more making for the river when Sergeant White headed him off and throwing his pistol in his face, ordered him to throw up his hands. The convict did so and sank to the ground exhausted. The convict was nude, save for a pair of pants. He had changed clothing twice during the chase, the clothing being given him at nerro houses. changed clothing twice during the chase, the clothing being given him at negro houses. himself, but failed.

He was brought into the city, where it was found that he had been seriously shot. One ball had entered the side and had passed entirely through. Another ball had lodged in the arm. Dr. Van Goldtsnoven was summoned and removed the ball.

sand of them were placed in large envelopes and delivered by hand at various residences. These programmes are exceedingly attractive and may be preserved as souvenirs of the greatest musical event in Atlanta's history. The sale of reserved seats at Miller's book store has been going on since Monday morning, and but for the enormous seating capacity of the Grand, every desirable seat would have been disposed of long ago. As it is, notwithstanding the very large advance sale of seats, several hundred eligible places may yet be had.

By long odds the most desirable seats yet undisposed of are those in the balcony. In the gallery one may hear to the best possible advantage, and as this part of the building is kept scrupulously clean, parties of ladies will secure places here. Already at least a hundred ladies have signified their intention of taking seats in the gallery at both performances.

Today and tomorrow the sale of seats will continue, and it is almost certain that every seat in the immense building will be secured before the matinee performance begins.

The report that Walter Damrosch will in any way cut the afternoon programme or that any of the solo artists will fail to appear is absolutely false. The full resources of the great orchestra will be brought out at both concerts.

CITY WATER BOND ELECTION.

Special Registration for the Same-The Bonds a Public Necessity.

To correct some misapprehension as to registration for the city water bond election it may be stated that special registration, under the city charter, was ordered for this special bond election; any person who registered last year on payment of their taxes were not thereby qualified to vote on this water bond election. The books for the registration were not onead until the 7th registration were not opened until the 7th of last month, and will close next Thursday of last month, and will close next Thursday evening, May 11th, at 9 o'clock.

The place to register for the election is at the city tax collector's office, Chamber of Commerce building. There are only registered up to this time between nineteen hundred and two thousand voters, and there are only two days more in which to register. Another misapprehension needs to be corrected. This water bond election has preference to or connection with any no reference to or connection with any bonds heretofore sold, but it is to determine the issue of bonds heretofore authorized and favorably voted, but to which there was a technical objection with reference to the published notice. These bonds now to be voted on have all the while been to be voted on have all the while been estimated as necessary to complete the new waterworks, and on the 14th of October, 1890, were authorized by an almost unanimous vote of the people, but were hot then issued so as to save the interest on the same until the proceeds were needed. Unless these bonds are issued, the amount of $182,000 necessary to complete the new works will have to come from the other ordinary departments of the city government, such as sewers, public schools, fire department, sanitary, police and street ment, such as sewers, public schools, fire department, sanitary, police and street work; and this cannot be done without great detriment to these departments.

The subject is too important to be overlooked by any public spirited citizen, and all who favor the issuing of these bonds as originally contemplated and now absolutely necessary should at once qualify for voting by registering today or tomorrow. If pou are tired taking the large old-fashion-ed griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One bill a dose. Try them. WEATHER SYNOPSIS AND FORECAST.

LIKE A TOBOGGAN.

The East Tennessee Will Put on a Flyer from Atlanta to Macon.

The East Tenessee is talking about putting on a train which will make the run from Atlanta to Macon in less time than the Central's Nancy Hanks covers the distance.

A schedule of two hours and a quarter is mentioned as the probable time for the run. That will be fifteer minutes quicker than the Nancy Hanks makes the run, but the East Tennessee's line is only eighty-eight miles against 103 by the Central.

The new train may be called the Toboggan, as it will be a case of whizz-walk back fifty miles.

William Nisbitt, a boy eleven years old, will come off the chaingang today. He was sent up at the January term of the criminal court for this county for a misdemeanor. He was given aix months. It was a slight offense. He has served half his term and, being young, the governor let him ge. Beward for an Incendiary. A reward of $100 has been offered by the governor for the capture of the incendiary who set fire to G. B. Brannan's farm in Henry ounty recently. The party is unknown.

About Paris. Rome, Ga., May 9 .- (Special.)-A large party of negroes and young white men ar-rived in Rome this morning from Gadsden

"That would be hard to estimate, but I should not want to set it at less than 50,000. The Americans are all very rich who live there and they spend a great deal of money. They have the most elegant establishments and the most brilliant salons in the world, in fact. There is always plenty to attract and please, and the Americans are especially well liked by the French. There is first a sincere friendship for all Americans, and there is a mercenary friendship which results from the liberality with which they spend their money."

"Is there any particular reason why the city is so attractive to the Americans?"

"I can think of one that makes it so, and that is the perfect freedom of it. No one knows or cares what you do, and the enjoyment of living in such an atmosphere needs to be realized to be appreciated. It cannot be described."

Macon, Ga., May 9.—(Special.)—President Waddell, of the Georgia State Agricultural Society arrived in the city this morning and spent the day here on business. He speaks enthusiastically about the state fair to be held in Augusta next fall and says the indications are that it will be a great success in every way. The exhibition is styled "the Georgia State fair at the Auis styled "the Georgia State fair at the Augusta exposition." Thus the identity of both concerns is preserved. When the name of the exhibition was recently under discussion the management did not exactly know what to call it. The officers of the agricultural society did not wish for it to lose its identity, and the exposition company wished its identity retained. Various suggested suggestions were made. It was suggested that the exhibition be called "the Georgia state fair and Augusta exposition," but this and other suggestions were rejected. Finally President Pat Walsh, of the exposition company, suggested that it be called "the Georgia State fair at the Augusta exposition." President Waddell, of the agricultural society, accepted this suggestion, and such will be the technical name of the President Waddell said today to The Constitution's correspondent that the premium list would soon be issued. There will be some changes from the list of last year. He states that the contest between counties for the best display will be spirited and highly interesting. Bartow, Sumter and Talbot counties have already given notice that they will enter for the best display. Numerous other counties are expected to enter. The first prize at the state fair last year for the best county display was $1,000. Last year $100 was given to each county exhibiting which did not win one of the regular premiums. This year, so President Waddell says, $150 will be given to each county which does not obtain a prize.

Judge Fish, of the Americus superior court circuit, was in the city today en route home from Atlanta. Tomorrow is the day appointed for Judge Fish to render his decision on the motion argued before him last Friday, to admit the Henkles to ball on the ground that father and son are in bad health, and if they are kept in jail they will die. Judge Fish fully realizes and appreciates the great responsibility resting upon him, and so auxious is he to do what is right in the matter that he has spent the last two days in Atlanta at the state library reading authorities and the law on the subject upon which he must decide. He has dived into legal lore over one hundred years ago. Judge Fish's decision is awaited with a great deal of interest in Macon, for the Henkles have relatives here, and Dr. Worsham, who was killed, was also related to Macon people.

A Young Boy Killed.

The afternoon Frank Bealer, the six-year-old son of Foreman Bealer, of the Acme brewery, was run over by a South Macon electric street car and mashed to death. The accident happened near the intersection of Hazel and Fourth streets. The car was in charge of Motorman Floyd Birdsong, and Conducter Harman, and runs from Vine-ville to South Macon. These men have long been in the service of the Macon and Suburban street car railroad, ami are considered two of the most reliable and prudent employes of the company.

Little Frank was running after his dog and the boy attempted to run across the track immediately in front of the car which was coming down grade at a rate of about six miles per hour. In fact the car was just beginning to get under headway after having stopped to allow some passengers to get on. Motorman Birdsong saw the boy just as he started to run in front of the car and yelled at him to keep out of the way, but he neglected to do so. He was struck by the gar and knocked down. His head and one side of his face were crushed by the motor under the car, and one leg was badly mashed. The wheels did not run over him. Motorman Birdsong, who did all in his power to stop the car as soon as he saw the boy attempting to cross the track, did stop the car within the ear's length of where the boy was struck. Moterman, conductor and others mahed to where Frank was lying bleeding between the tracks, but he simply opened his eyes once after they reached him, and in an instant was dead. He never uttered a cry or groan from the moment the car struck him. His death was practically instantaneous. His mother was killed. It is thought by some that he was trying to run to join her in her walk when he was killed. There were five passengers in the car when Frank was killed. A large crowd collected at the scene. The coroner held an inquest and the verdict was that the Motorman not at all at fault.

VITRIOL IN HER FACE PRESIDENT WADDELL WILLIAMS CAPTURED.

A Toccoa Woman, Fired by Insane Thiks with Confidence of the Success of The Murderer of Harriet Williams Now in Morgan County Jail.

FULL PARTICULARS OF THE CAPTURE.

Wallace and Jack Welch, Colored, Two Montgomery County Brothers, Will Take the Reward.

Madison, Ga., May 9 .- (Special.)-Yesterday when the passenger train on the Macon and Northern railroad rolled in three very important passengers disembarked. They were Jack Welch, Wallace Welch and Ike Williams. Ike Williams wore bracelets and Wallace and Jack Welch were very attentive to him. They conducted him to the country where conducted him to the courthouse, where he was introduced to Sheriff Fears he was introduced to Sheriff Fears as Ike Williams, who in cold blood murdered Harriet Williams, his concubine, on the morning of March 30th last, a full account of which appeared in The Constitution at that time. It will be remembered that the murder occurred on the plantation of L. J. Walton in lower Morgan and was brutal in the extreme. Two shots from a double-barrel gun were fired into her body while she was begging for mercy.

Harriet had been living with Ike Wiliams as his wife. One day, in the absence of Ike, one Aus Williams, an ex-convict living on Mr. Walton's place, married Harriet and moved her to his house. When Ike came home his bird had flown and murder entered his heart. He haunted the place until his opportunity came. Mr. Walton at once offered a reward of $25, which the governor, upon being notified, increased $200. The rest was simple. Capture was assured for $225 will soon bring in a man of Ike's

Jack Welch, a Morgan county negro, had a brother, Wallace Welch, in Montgomery county working at a sawmill. Jack had been shadowing lke for some time. Finally he learned that Ike had headed for the piny woods and at once wrote his brother Wallace fore the letter reached Wallace he saw Ike. Ten minutes later he was reading the letter from his brother. He at once put up his team and gave pursuit. Ike had some hours the start, but by taking the train on the "Sam" road he soon came to a station where he learned Ike was only fifteen minutes ahead. He at once got three other men and gave pursuit. They soon overhauled him and found him lying in the bushes. He him and found him lying in the bushes. He made no resistance, was tied and marched to Chauncy, where the train was boarded and on to Madison they came. The capture was made Sunday evening about 5 o clock and the party arrived at Madison at 11 o clock this morning.

The prisoner after his capture owned up to the murder and tried to bribe Welch to turn him loose, but Welch was firm. The evidence against like Williams is positive and there will be no trouble to convict him. He shot down the woman in the immediate presence of another woman while she was

"The Average New England Democrat." We find in The Boston Journal, a warm republican organ, the following statement, which is brief enough to be used as a text: Our esteemed contemporary, The Atlanta Constitution, thinks that there is no dynamite in the income tax idea. If it could briefly interview the average New England democrat it would agree that there is not only dyna-mite, but guncotton, notroglycerine and meli-nite in it, and that it is loaded to the very

But why should The Constitution go about holding interviews with the average New England democrat? It would be time thrown away. The average New England democrat has shared in the remarkable prosperity that is the result of thirty years of tariff, and twenty years of financial, legislation in behalf of the northeastern section of the country. Is it necessary to inquire where he stands with respect to the proposition now before the country to wipe this class legislation off the statute books and enact laws for the benefit of all the people of the republic?

This fact is worthy of note, that the average New England democrat has never made any very serious or strenuous effort since the war to propagate his doctrine. He has been growing fat and serene. The financial legislation for the benefit of his republican neighbor worked for his own profit, so that there has probably never been seen in any other part of the country a more sociable or a friendlier communion of interests as that which has existed during the last quarter of a century between the average democrat and the stalwart republican of New England.

Taking all the circumstances into consideration, we have no doubt that the average New England democrat will imagine that he discovers all sorts of combustibles and explosives in any measure that disturbs the present state of things, or that is calculated to repeal legislation framed in the special interests of New England and the northeast. We imagine that the protests of the av erage New England democrat will be quite as earnest, if not as loud, as those of the stalwart New England republican. The explanation of this is that the special legislation of which New England is the beneficiary helps the pocket of the average democrat quite as much as it helps the pocket of the stalwart republican. The benefits and profits of the legislation that New England has succeeded in placing on the statute book to promote her special interests fall upon the democrats of that section as well as upon the republicans. The New England paper which recently complained that the finance committee of the senate was organized against the special interests of New England for the first time in thirty years struck the key-note of the situation.

The point we desire to make is that when it comes to promoting the special interests of New England at the expense of the rest of the country the democrats and republicans of that section practically obliterate party lines. The result of this situation is that if the democracy depended on the average New England democrat for succor and support its principles would soon flicker out and be forgotten. In no part of this republic have democratic principles a slighter or a feebler hold on the minds of men than in New England. In all other sections of the country democracy is perennial. It has its roots deen in the soil and grows and flourishes and spreads year by year. In New England selfish interests have destroyed its vigor and dissipated its flavor.

It is not necessary to go into details to justify this statement. There are many democrats in New England who are both stalwart and true, but these exceptions serve only to emphasize the deterioration and decay that have been going on in the body of the New England democracy. What is the dividing line between the average New England democrat and the average New England republican? We have been trying to discover it for several years, but our efforts have not been crowned with success. On the financial issue, it is well known that the New Englanders are the disciples of John Sherman, firm believers in the doctrine of robbery and extortion to which he has committed the republican party. It is to be borne in mind that when Editor Halstead advised the republicans in congress to reinforce the "democratic minority" he has in mind the New England and northeastern democrats who are John Sherman republicans when the financial issue is up for discussion or settlement. It may be supposed that the average ew England democrat stands unequivocally on the tariff plank of the democratic platform, but the democrats of the south and west will be deceived if they permit this supposition to cut any figure in their calculations. There is an unmistakable tendency on the part of the New England democrats to draw back from the tariff pledge of the party platform. The democratic newspapers of New England have ceased to discuss the question. They merely say that the party ought to go very slow when it comes to repealing the McKinley law and reforming the tariff. So that the explosives which The Boston Journal finds in the income tax are to be found in large quantities in the tariff issue and in the financial issue.

The whole truth is that the average New England democrat cannot ardently endorse the democratic platform and remain true to the protected interests of his section, which has been nurtured and fostered by the class legislation that has proved so oppressive to the best interests of the south and west. The southern and western democrats who are wise enough to understand the situation do not look to New England democrats for any substantial aid or support in redeeming the pledges of the Chicago platform.

In Rhode Island the other day two democratic congressmen were elected, and the event was regarded as in the nature of a glorious victory for the party. As a matter of fact, the republican monopolists and millionaires who control every bailiwick in that state supported the democratic candidates, and openly stated their reason, which was that they desired to have their interests represented behind the breastworks-in the caucus-in file very citadel of the democratic reformers.

That event illustrates the situation in New England.

Slandering Mr. Cleveland. The Constitution remarked the other day that it would be a great saving of time and trouble if certain goldbug editors could be brought to realize the fact that the financial doctrines of John Sherman and the republican moneylenders of the east will not go in Georgla. Whereupon The Chattapooga

Times comes forward with this comment: What about the doctrine of Grover Cleve-land? In what respect do his financial views differ from those held by Mr. Sherman? What are you going to do about his announced determination to exhaust all powers of the government to maintain gold payments retain the gold standard? Never mind about John Sherman; tell your "gold bug edi-tors" in Georgia that they must cease supporting Mr. Cleveland's financial doctrines r you will post them as traitors and read them out. Cleveland is a stouter "goldolator" than Sherman ever was, for the latter seems to favor raising the silver dollar from its sent ratio of 16 to 1 of gold to a ratio of or 24 to 1 of gold, and then resume the free coluage, which was stopped by law in 1873. Cleveland has no faith in the success

We have yet to see, even from a republican source, a more vicious attack on Mr. Cleveland. To say that his financial views do not differ from those of John Sherman, the arch-enemy of the democratic party, the conspirator who brought about the demonetization of silver-the agent of the republican Shylocks who desire to wipe out of existence our silver currency-the man who is anxious to put an end to the use of silver as a money metal-to say that Mr. Cleveland's financial views do not differ from those of such a man is to propagate a cruel and a wicked slan-

It is the same as saying that Mr. Cleveland repudiated the platform while pretending to endorse it. It is the same as saying that he deceived the people. We do not believe it, and no other democrat who has any respect for Mr. Cleveland or any confidence in his integrity can be induced to believe it John Sherman is in favor of gold monometallism, whereas the democratic platform makes a clear and unmistakable demand for the coinage of both gold and silver on equal terms, and with no discrimination against either, each dollar of gold and silver to be kept at a parity. Now, this is bimetallism and nothing short of it can be called bimetallism.

In the face of this declaration, in the face of the declarations of democrats all over the country, in the face of Mr. Cleveland's unqualified endorsement of the Chicago platform and his tacit agreement with the democratic interpretation of that instrument, the Chattanooga paper, itself a single standard organ, now propagates the wicked slander that he is a John Sherman republican in his financial views Democrats cannot be too prompt and emphatic in denouncing such a vicious attack on the democratic president. though it comes from a self-constituted 'organ."

Speedy Justice Wanted.

Several contemporaries in Georgia, while heartily endorsing the crusade against the lynchers, express the opinion that the cause of lynch law is the tardy and uncertain administration of justice in our courts. The Albany News and Advertiser demands a jury qualification, and says:

The tardy course of the law, the scheming and shrewd manipulations of the lawyers has much to do with the slow progress of the law, but paramount above this is the utter in competency of the majority of jurors who are impaneled by the courts to sit in judgment upon the lives and property of their fellow-men who may not be guilty of whatever crimes they may be accused. Men are frequently known to sit as jurors who canno read or write, and whose minds are no capable of taking in anything beyond the cultivated existence—a man whose reason can be molded and warped to suit the wishes of the lawyer who can command his closest attention. And again, we have the processional jurer. He who loafs around town with no known occupation, but when court com-mences he is on hand ready to serve his country and his neighbor for the money there is in it. Such a man or men are a disgrace to their country and yet our courts and the people cou On the same line The Oconee Enterprise has the following: Everybody knows of the tedious and uncertain process of our courts. Right here in Oconee county we have seen criminal cases continued from term to term. We have seen continued from term to term. We have seen these delays result in the final escape of men charged with the most heinous offense. In truth, the people have come to look upon our courts as places where only petty thieves and men guilty of misdemeanors are to be convicted and punished. The graver offenses have come to be looked upon as matters to be settled outside the courthouse, if settled at all. The people have lost respect for the courts and confidence in them. Perhaps the judges are not blamable for this condition of affairs. The fault may be in the law. But the fault is somewhere. We all know that the condition exists. Shrewd lawyers manipulate cases as long as the cash holds out. They frame excuses for delay and succeed in securing the delays. They are paid to do it and it is their business, their duty to do it.

do it. We devote considerable space to these extracts because they very largely voice public sentiment. There is a general demand for speedy justice in crim-inal cases, and an improved jury sys-tem that will keep the names of incom-petent and lawless men out of the jury box. Our lawmakers should investigate these alleged evils and look about for a

Odd Feats of Newspaper Enterprise. When Bennett, of The Herald, sent Stanley to find Livingstone in Africa, the expedition was regarded as a novel piece of newspaper enterprise.

Since that time the newspapers have engaged in many other remarkable ventures. One New York paper sent a lady reporter racing against another literary lady round the globe, while a contem porary had a correspondent inoculated with cholera virus as an experiment. Now, we are witnessing another series of these peculiar enterprises. Young men representing various newspapers are racing on bicycles or on foot from remote points to Chicago, and The San Francisco Examiner has started two reporters, with $1 in their pockets, to circle the globe. These tourists have just reached Buffalo, and in an interview in that city they stated that their contract was to earn enough at each stopping place to help them on to the next. They are not allowed to solicit favors. From San Francisco to Buffalo they have found it easy to make enough money in odd jobs to pay their way. How it will be when they strike Europe and the far east they cannot tell.

Just what the newspapers will do next no man can guess. It is safe to say that, so long as this craze for rivaling each other in adventursome exploits continues the world will be treated to many picturesque spectacles not seen heretofore outside of Bedlam.

Money Withdrawn from Circulation. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat speaks of a well-to-do citizen who, in the expectation of a premium on gold, has been saving gold certificates and locking them up until he now has $7,000 in such currency. When told that he sustained quite a loss in the matter of interest, and that it would be a serious thing for the country if all business men hoarded money in that way, he merely smiled and said nothing.

It is more than possible that millions of dollars are hoarded in this unprofitable fashion. Commercial travelers frequently hear of farmers who are hiding their money and refusing to lend it to their neighbors, as was their former practice. Not long ago a north Georgia farmer confidentially informed a neighbor that he knew why money was tight; it was because he had tucked away $1,500, which he would neither invest nor lend out. He did not want it generally known, but he was satisfied that he was responsible for the prevailing financial depression. Another farmer recently made inquiries about the possibility of exchanging his paper money for gold. He refused to believe that he could be accommodated by one of our city banks, and is slowly collecting the vellow metal out in the country and holding it for a premium.

Perhaps there are thousands of such hoarders in the country at large. Of course it goes without saying that such nen, when there are great numbers of them, make money scarce, and they practically damage us more than the American tourists who spend $100,000,-000 in gold in Europe every year.

These queer phases of the financial situation are not generally considered, but they are worth studying.

What Makes a Man. Sometimes, in a pessimistic mood, men say that the mere possession of money fixes a man's status in our large cities-makes him more prominent and influential than a man of genius. This view is a mistaken one. Sam

Randall was for a generation a commanding figure in public life, with a host of devoted friends, and yet he was always a poor man. In New York and Chicago, today, society eagerly welcomes scores of men from all parts of the country who are without bank accounts, and whose only capital is carried in their heads.

The man who can write better, speak better or do any useful or entertaining thing better than the majority of his competitors will find himself distinguished, and in our centers of wealth and business activity he will enjoy a distinction and a prominence never reached by many very rich men.

This may be a commercial age, but it is also an age of ideas, and the man of genius or of strong originality does not eed money to commend him to pub lic favor. If he has an active mentality and some individuality he will stir the thoughts and feelings of those around him, interest them, and attract friends and followers, even among those who are supposed to measure their fellows by the money standard. The late Emory Storrs was always a poor man, but his brilliant talk and striking ideas drew around him a delighted circle of rich men. It is so with Joaquin Miller, James Whitcomb Riley and dozens of artists, inventors and other gifted workers in various lines of human endeavor.

Our millionaires do not give themselves up to the worship of money, as many people think? They recognize and appreciate exceptional talent, and join the masses in applauding it. A man of genuine superiority in any line will soon find in our great cities that no. body cares what he is worth in dollars and cents. If he can benefit, delight, interest or startle people they will give him a place in the front rank.

This is somewhat opposed to the views of the pessimists and growlers, but it is true, all the same.

For sixty-seven days Boss Buck has been enjoying the usufruct of a democratic office under a democratic administration. But his time will come after awhile. He will be flipped as soon as the administration can get around to his case.

Editor Halstead ups and declares that there are three hundred millions in gold in the treasury. Well, what are the republi-can Shylocks and goldolators making such an awful fuss about?

Doesn't The Boston Journal think that the "average New England democrat" is somewhat below the average of the southern and western pattern?

Speaker Crisp has opened the eyes of the president in the case of Boss Buck, the republican leader. No doubt Buck will be flipped long before the first of July. Buck says he will be willing to retire on the first of July. That date is fifty-one days ahead, and the trouble is that he may change his mind and not be willing to re-tire quietly. We believe, if the democratic newspapers of the state join The Constitution in continually protesting against the that the president will remove him after

Mr. Watterson's weekly subscribers will be utterly unable to understand the purpose of the flop The Courier-Journal has made on the silver question. Some of them will doubtless grieve.

Will Editor Richardson, of Columbus terpret the democratic platform to fit John Sherman's financial views?

When Editor Richardson, of Columbus, and Editor Plez Stovall, of Savannah, refuse to accept 60-cent dollars at their face value we shall know for a certainty that they are goldbugs.

It is estimated that last year the sum reached $100,000,000. The amount of gold brought to the United States last year by foreign tourists was about $30,000,000. If these figures are correct, $70,000,000 more gold was taken out than was received by this means. This year the prospects are that the balance will year the prospects are that the balance will year the prospects are that the basales will be reversed in our favor. Owing to the Chicago fair fewer Americans will go abroad, and an unusual number of foreigners will visit the United States, It is interesting to consider what effect this may have upon our national supply of gold coin.

Colonel W. H. Hulsey Shies His Castor in the Middle of the Pit.

HE WANTS TO REPRESENT THE FIFTH.

And Does Not Mind Saying So-He Announces the News of His Candidacy.

Hon. W. H. Hulsey, well known as one of Atlanta's foremost lawyers, has decided to allow the use of his name as a candidate for congress for the next election

For some time he has been considering the matter and his friends, not only in Fulton county, but from other quarters of the dis trict, have been urging him to make the race. He has thought over the matter carefully and to a Constitution reporter, who called yesterday to ask if the report of his candidacy was true, he said:

"Yes, I will make the race, and I am going in to win. I have weighed the ma ter very carefully and bave decided to put myself in the hands of my friends. In the last race I was induced to allow the use of my name only ten days before the county Many of my friends were committed and I was under the disadvantage of entering at the eleventh hour, but I made a showing which was very gratifying to me, and since that time many of those who could not support me, having previously committed themselves, have told me that they would give me their hearty support. Indeed, it is at the solicitation of many of those who could not vote for me last time, but who will heartily support me now, that I have decided to make the race. I do not say that I propose to begin an active campaign right now, but I am not going to let the grass grow under my feet and the man who beats me this time, if he lives in this district, and I do not believe that such a man can be found, will have to do some very lively work to secure that end."

Colonel Hulsey is an old resident of Atlanta, has been mayor of the city, solicito general of this circuit, city attorney of Atlanta and has represented the con-

Atlanta and has represented the county several times in the legislature. He is a gallant confederate veteran, having enlisted in Walton county and fought throughout the war.

He numbers his friends by the thousand, and the announcement of his candidacy will put many of them actively to work at once in his behalf.

The race grows interesting in the beginning.

DR. MARTIN.

He Talks of the New Testament Conversions Last Night.

AND ANSWERS A NUMBER OF QUERIES.

The Meeting Was One of Unusual Interest-The Revival Will Continue for Two or Three Weeks.

Nearly a thousand people drank in the nessage of the gospel at the Christian hurch tabernacle last night, and the meeting was one of the most profitable and pleasant of the entire revival.

A charm about the meetings is the manare in which they grow upon the public, and this is due to the variety of thought the Sabbath following the evangelist will over he was immersed and prepared for his ministry.

After the discourse was concluded the evangelist announced that the remainder of the conversions would form the topic of his discourse tonight.

The answers to the queries occupied about three-quarters of an hour after the conclusion of the sermon. The gospel invitation was extended to the large audience and many accepted the offer of salvation.

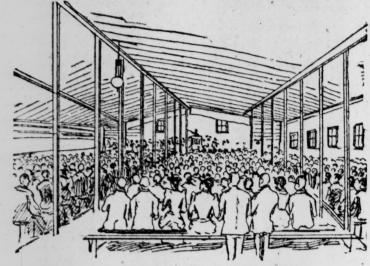

They Will Be Continued. The result of the meetings has been so gratifying that the revival will continue for two or three weeks longer.

Announcement cards with a published list of the topics for the ensuing week will be given out tonight. The variety will be equally as pleasing as that of the past week and the cards are published for the purpose of enabling those who cannot attend reg-larly to single out those meetings they think will suit their needs better.

There will be a meeting for ladies only next Sunday afternoon and invitation cards

The query box is another attractive feature about the service. Every one is at liberty to drop a question in the box that is pertinent to the issue of their soul's salvation, and these questions are answered by Dr. Martin at the close of the discourse. Last night the number of these queries ran up into the neighborhood of twenty-five, and every variety of subject was touched upon by the evangelist. It proved of re-freshing interest to the large congregation, and every one listened with undivided atHow It Was Built.

There is an interesting story back of the erection of the tabernacle.

When Dr. Martin came to the city there was no thought of a tabernacle for the purpose of accommodating the large crowds as it was generally supposed that the auditorium of the church on Hunter street would be ample for the purpose

The services had scarcely commenced, however, before it became evident to every one that a vast amount of good could be accomplished in a larger building. The church was too small to accommodate all who want-was too small to accommodate all who wanted to attend.

Then followed the idea of the tabernacle. There was no time for delay, as every meeting was valuable in the salvation of souls. Accordingly the officers of the church negotiated for the lot on the corner of Ivy and Edgewood avenue, and the building was put up in about a day's time. Seats were provided in such a number as to accommodate comfortably two thousand people. Electric lights were suspended from the roof and the building fitted up as attractively and as comfortably as possible.

Each night the building has been crowded. Each night the building has been crowded, tention and much profit to the explanations which came from the man of God.

The preaching of the word was accompanied by an unmistakable manifestation of the holy spirit. Several conversions were the result of the service last night. The topic of the evening was "New Testament Conversions." The preacher began the presence of the preacher began the presence of the preacher began the preache were the result of the service last night. In topic of the evening was "New Testament Conversions." The preacher began by making a division of the New Testament for the benefit of his hearers. The four gospel written by the evangelist, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, gave an account of the life of Christ, his birth, baptism, ministry, crucifiction, resurrection, ascension an glorification. The book recording the acts of the apostles gave an account of the preaching of the word and of the conversions which followed through the work of the apostles.

the abostles. This was the docket, so to speak, of their doings, and was given for the benefit and instruction of Christians throughout the

All of the New Testament conversions, as wrought by the apostles, who were divinely commissioned by the Savior, were recorded in this book. Dr. Martin, after making this brief introductory statement, proceeded to read the concluding paragraphs of each of the four gospels, in which the commission of the Savior was given to the apostles to go out into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. preach the gospel to every creature.

apostles to go out into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.

Theye were not to go out immediately after receiving the divine commission, but were to tarry awhile in Jerusalem for the purpose of being imbued with the holy ghost. On the day of pentecost, they were all gathered together with one accord and the miracle of the Holy Spirits descent was enacted. Peter, the orator of the disciples, was the spokesman, and a multitude of conversions to the number of three thousand was the result of the preaching of the gospel. The evangelist then argued the question of their baptism. He stated that the quibble had been made that such a large number could not have been immersed and they were merely sprinkled. He refuted the idea and occupied the position that all of those who professed conversion were really immersed. He stated that he himself had baptized as many as sixty in three quarters of an hour and he was not noted for his agility or rapid motion. With twelve disciples or the total number of apostles present, about a hundred and twenty-five in all, the entire multitude could have been immersed in three quarters of an hour.

After dwelling upon the scene enacted on the day of pentecost, the preacher then proceeded to discuss the next important conversion which was that of the eunuch by the Evangelist Philip. He argued also that the ennuch was immersely, taking, as he stated, the literal expression of the Bible, that the two first went to the water and after that into the water. I was argued that the country was a desert tract, an for that reason there was nobody of water sufficiently large for the purpose of the immersion. This he disproved by making it plain that the country was not a sandy place but a district that was barren of vegetation, but in which considerable water abounded. As to the bautsun of the multitude at Jerusalem the doctor stated that ample water for the purpose was near at hand. No large city was ever built without water facilities, and there were many pools of water within the city.

Mosely only reached the city yesterday morning and was preparing to leave when arrested. Just before his arrest he met a former fellow workman of his and the two had a short conversation together. As soon as Mosely left his fellow workman the latter hurried off in search of an officer, and finding Lanford, told him that he had just been talking with a murderer. The man said that Mosely had killed a man in Brunswick about a year ago, while going under the name of Mosely had killed a man in Brunswick about a year ago, while going under the name of Joe Reed and had since been in hiding in Florida under the name of Glenn Mosely. The two officers followed Mosely and arrested him just as he was starting to get on a train at Simpson street. He denies any knowledge of the killing at Brunswick, but admits that he left that city about a year ago and says that he has been at work in Florida since. He was ordered held until the matter can be thoroughly sifted and his identity settled beyond question. As to the murder of which Mosely is accused the officers know nothing.

In addition to the fine playing of the long first baseman and the most excellent pitching of the left-hander, every member on the team gave fine exhibitions of ball playing. Murray was especially good. Two of his catches were the greatest ever seen in Atlanta and were of the circus order sure enough. One of the catches was estwo men on bases, Cross sent a fly into left field. It was too far away from either Lally or Murray for any one to think that it could be handled, and both men on the bases started to run. Lally and Murray made a break for the ball, and just as every made a break for the ball, and just as every one thought it was going to touch the ground, Murray scooped it up. It was the finest and longest running catch ever made on the grounds and the grand stand rose to its feet to cheer the manager.

That catch was the feature of the game apart from the stick work of Motz and the pitching of Dewald were noticeable.

Cross, who was in the box for the Charlestonians, did some fine work and received fine support. Jimmie Long, who was with the Atlantas last year, carried off the batting honors for the Sea Gulls out of four times at the bat, getting three nice singles, besides doing some daring base running.

singles, besides doing some daring base running.

The game opened with Camp at bat, and he was given his base on Cross's error and was sacrificed to second by Ely. Motz produced a hit over the left field fence, and both he and Camp came home.

Wheelock sent the ball over the fence too and walked around the bases, but the next man, Wentz, flew out to Murray. Then Long got his base on Camp's error but McCarthy flew out to Murray. Long got to second on Carney's single but was left there when Weddidge forced Carney out at second.

Lally's sacrifice was all that Atlanta could do in the fourth.

Weddidge's Mouble was all Charleston got in that inning, and after that she did nothing except the two singles Long got in, one in the fifth and one in the eighth.

Murray got a hit in the fifth and Motz got one, a single, in the sixth, while the seventh was wholly fruitless.

A single by Ely, a triple by Motz and a single by Conners gave Atlanta two more in the eighth.

> Memphis, Tenn., May 9.—(Special.)—Memphis won the first game played with Mobile this afternoon in the presence of about a thousand people. Heavy batting was the order of the day, the result of the game being in the balance until the ninth inning, when the locals managed to bunch their hits when the locals managed to bunch their hits and added four runs to their score, which settled it, the total being 10 to 6 in favor of Memphis. The fielding of both clubs was on the brilliant order. Memphis played lucky by hitting the ball at opportune times. Gilks, in center field, made a beautiful catch of a fly after a long run, which won him applause. The official score is as follows: Memphis.0 3 2 0 0 1 0 0 4-10. Savannah, Ga., May 9.—(Special.)—The May week crowd was largely increased by arrivals on this morning and tonight's trains. The weather has cleared and the trains. The weather has cleared and the outlook is good for an immense crowd flocking in tomorrow, which is Tybee day. Today was largely given up to sport. The fire department made a highly creditable parade this morning. This afternoon at Wheelman's park there was fine bicycle racing. Great interest centered in the races in which Johnson and Wheeler were pitted. They divided honors, each winning two races. Wheeler's best run was a mile in 2:29 against a heavy wind. Owing to the wind records could not be beat. On Thursday they ride for this purpose.

The racing throughout was of great interest.

Nashville, Tenn., May 9.—(Special.)—Nashville defeated Montgomery today in a beautiful game by a score of 8 to 0, shutting the Colts out for the first time this year. Smith, the Montgomery pitcher, was batted out of the box. Wilson was put in to take his place and did much better. Haffer pitched a splendid game, holding the visitors down to one hit and striking out three men. The fine fielding of Miller, Kraig, Larouque and Burke was loudly applauded several times by the audience. Kraig led in batting, making three hits out of five times at the bat. Laroque and Miller came second with two hits each. Hasamaer, the short stop of the Montgomerys, got in the only hit made off Hoffer, knocking the ball over the right field fence for two bags. Howard's two hours' start had counted for nothing as the two men reached the objective point at the same time.
The Journal, Howard's paper, printed a telegram which he filed at Crete, Ill., at 12:20 o'clock, in which he said: Chicago thirty miles away. The railroad bed is so rough that I cannot make the distance very rapidly. Will reach Chicago about 3:30 o'clock. WALTER HOWARD. O'clock.

Below the telegram the paper said:
It could not be ascertained where Durant was. His friends claim that he will eat dinner In Chicago at 3 o'clock this afternoon, but this seems to be a claim which is father to their hopes, as Durant is behind Howard. After Howard reaches Chicago he must give Durant two hours. If Howard reaches Chicago at 3:30, Durant will have until 5:30 to beat him.

Chicago at 3:30, Durant will have until 5:30 to beat him.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon it was reported that a telegram had been received in Atlanta stating that Durant passed Goodnow, Ill., at 12:10 o'clock, and was thirty minutes behind Howard.

Howard was at Crete at 12:20 o'clock, which is about five miles nearer Chicago than Goodnow. Goodnow.

If this is so, although Howard may reach Chicago first, Durant may get there less than two hours behind him and win the race.

No one thought of contradicting the statement of The Journal, as its decision was in accordance with the construction of every one who read the articles of agreement the waying upon signed before their left Atlanta.

But later in the afternoon The Journal came out with an extra denying that Durant had won and asserting that neither man had won the race.

This created lots of talk throughout the city and the friends of Howard grasped it like a drowning man grasps at a straw. In the extra The Journal says:

It looks like Durant has won.

It has been a most remarkable ride for both men, but especially for Howard, as he is quite young and inexperienced in bicycle riding.

Both men, however, are in good condition, according to their dispatches and the dispatch from Mr. Timberlake.

The following telegrams were received by direct wire from the Columbia hotel at Chicago, where both men are, as soon as they arrived:

It seems strange that Foote. Howard's running mate, should have preceded him by forty minutes, while he came on with Durant. Some people here profess to believe that Howard and Durant made an agreement in Rome, after Howard's wheel had broken and they were there together, that Durant would forego the two hours handicap and consider the race an even one.

According to the rules, however, under which they ran, Durant would seem to be the winner by two hours. Both men are deserving of great credit.

A telegram has been received from Durant In which he claims that he won the race by two hours.

The friends of Durant could not see how the race was "no race," as Howard asserted, because the articles of agreement gave the man who left Atlanta last the right of two hours more time at the other end. These articles were pulled out and re-read and here they are: They were printed in the three Atlanta papers before the two men left the city on the long, hard ride and when submitted to Mr. James Lynch, one of the best experts in racing and sporting matters in the city, he replied in writing that the race was Durants.

But here are the articles of agreement: Atlanta, Ga., April 24, 1893.—We, the undersigned, hereby agree to leave Atlanta on our bleycles on Tuesday, April 26th—Mr. Howard at 3 o'clock p. m., and Mr. Durant two hours later—for Chicago, the start to be made at Brisbine park, and the signal to be given by the umpire of the game of ball to be played that afternoon.

We solemnly and faithfully piedge our honor to, the observance of the following rules to govern the confest:

1. That neither of us will use in any manner whatsoever any means or manner of conveyance other than our bleycles, and that the movement of our bicycles shall be entirely unaided by any other force tha

7. Each contestant will make affidavit of his arrival in Chicago that none of the provisions of the above agreement have been violated in any manner whatsoever.

WALTER HOWARD.

H. DURANT.

And here is Mr. Lynch's reply:

In answer to your inquiry of "Who won the race—Durant or Howard?" I would say Durant. In the articles of agreement nothing is said as to a handicap. Howard left Atlanta two hours ahead of Durant, and to win the race he should beat Durant to the Columbia hotel, Chicago, two hours.

JAMES F. LYNCH.

It was then, too, that the friends of both parties recalled the conditions under which the papers were signed. Mr. Durant and Mr. Howard met in Mr. Howell's office and agreed to the terms, which were then drawn up. There in the presence of quite a number of gentlemen it was expressly stated by both gentlemen that the man who lost the two hours at this end should have the benefit of it at the other. Then it was decided that they should draw straws for first start. Hon. Charles Northen held the straws and both gentlemen hew. Mr. Howard got the straw which sent him on the road first and even after the straws were drawn it was again discussed as to the two hours at both ends of the road.

The people who have been giving the matter any study at all felt satisfied that the race belonged to Durant, but eagerly awaited a message from him.

None of his friends had any doubt as to his ability to win the race and none were surprised when the message came announcing that he had won.

But this morning The Constitution received a dispatch from Durant and it clears up much of the story about them rolling up to the Columbia together.

Howard was away ahead of Durant when Durant leaped into the saddle yesterday morning and Howard had advantage in both time and mileage. At least twenty-five miles was between them, but Durant did not mind that and set out to overtake his opponent. He made the best ride he has made since the race began and that was the ride of his life. He knew that it was the last day of the race and if he did not overtake Howard and at least go into Chicago alo

But it must not be forgotten that Howard But it must not be forgotten that Howard has made a great race himself.

The story of Durant's last day's ride could not be better or more interestingly told than he tells it himself. Here it is:

could not be better or more interestingly told than he tells it himself. Here it is:

Durant's Telegram.

Chicago, Ill., May 9.—(Special.)—I never did as hard a day's work in my life as I did today. From haif-past 5 o'ciock until 3 I was not out of my saddle a haif hour ail told. During that time I covered ninety miles, every mile between rails and over crossties, an average of little less than ten miles for every hour from start to finish. The distance was not so great and the rate of speed low, but when it is remembered that the run was over crossties, wheelmen at least, will recognize the strenuous effort it required. Tonight I am limping around with a pair of very sore and swoolen ankles as one of the results, though otherwise do not feel the effect of the finish of our 835-mile jaunt over mountains and plains. My Columbia wheel is also in good shape, having bumped across those countless ties without apparent injury in any way.

Now that the finish is made and the test of endurance and speed between Mr. Howard and myself has been accomplished, there is something in the way of explanation due. When we started out from Atlanta we were satisfied that it would not only be the utmost foolishness to run a race over nearly 900 miles of unknown wilds and barrens, but that none of our friends expected such a course of us, We never laid claim to professionalism or didicey, but were willing to let the victory hang in the balance until the end of the last day's work, each man holding an equal opportunity on the beging of that final test. With that plan in view we were located within a few miles of each other last night, in fact Mr. Howard and I shook hands before the final trial at Fowler yesterday evening, the agreement being that he should have, two hours start of me to make the race we from the miles of each other last night, in fact Mr. Howard and I shook hands before the final trial at Fowler yesterday evening, the agreement being that he should have two hours start of me to make the race one from the scratch. Howard slept in Goodland, ten miles in advance of me, and was to have one hour start this morning. This programme, upon comparing data, we find was carried out to the letter. Rain fell heavily during the night and was still falling this morning when we started. At Goodland, where I took breakfast, I learned that Howard had gotten twenty miles the lead. For three or four hours I worked with might and main, but by comparing time with operators and linemen found that I gained little or nothing on Howard. The rough road bed made the riding perfect torture and after fifty miles my ankles began swelling. I kept on harder than ever, however, afraid to let up for fear that my ankles would refuse to work at all, and along toward noon was cheered by the gradual gain, shown by the time taken by operators and linemen, who were excitedly becomed in the extention of the section. and along toward noon was cheered by the gradual gain, shown by the time taken by operators and linemen, who were excitedly interested in the contest. As the atternoon wore on my gain was faster. At first I thought I would do great work if I could get to the scratch by fifteen minutes, so persistently did Howard peg away. Just here I will say that he is the grittlest rider I ever saw. When I finally overhauled him at Kensington, two and a half miles inside the corporate limits of the city, he was what wheelmen call thoroughly "done up," but kept trying to make headway. When I diamounted he was entering an eating house. I followed inside, and then we was not long in agreeing that it would be useless torture to both to continue the ride to the heart of the city. Our object had been accomplished, the race well run. Besides, we felt that we would both feel better if we could eliminate any "sporting" character which the contest might have made possible, and so agreed to shake hands on the spot and void any bets that might have been made at home by taking cars for the hotel.

We are both satisfied. If we had attempted to make such a race as today's when we started out, both would have succumbed long before we reached the blue grass fields of Tennessee. In Chicago a great deal of inferest has been manifested in the contest and all the evening we have been the recipients of attention at the Columbia, where we are the guests of Captain Timberlake, a well-known Georgian.

THE NEW YORK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange. NEW YORK, May 9.—There were sharp ralies at intervals in stocks today, but the tendencies in prices in the main were downward, owing to the reports that the government crop report, to be issued tomorrow, will be most unfavorable, and the collapse of the Chem.cal National bank, of Chicago, which led to rumors affecting the credit of other financial institutions of that city. The decline at the start was equal to 2 1.2 in National Cordage, 2 1.2 in Sugar and 1.2 to 2 per cent in the remainder of the Jist. Before the expiration of the first half hour, American Sugar suddenly rose from $7 1.2 to 91 and a sharp rally ensued in sympathy, but the closing of the National Cordage transfer books, the rumors that the amount of the company's paper outstanding was far in excess of recent estimates and reports, which were subsequently denied, that the amount of the company's paper outstanding was far in excess of recent estimates and reports, which were subsequently denied, that an application had been made for a receiver for the Distilling and Cattle Feeding Company plunged the market once more into depression, as compared with the final quotations of yesterday. During the last fifteen minutes of business a rally of 1-4 to 1 1-4 per cent occurred and the market left off steadier in tone at the rally. today. Crop reports come in very poorly and are having an effect upon the Grangers in general. The government crop report will be issued tomorrow and is expected to be very bearish on stocks. It is also to be noted that the bank of Victoria has failed. Its capital was 600 000 pounds, with deposits of not less than 7,000,000 pounds. Of the Australian banks it was the ninth largest in deposits and capital, and it shows what a sorry plight the Australian banks are getting into, and this alone should be enough to discourage the London market.

an unlooked-for strength, early cables reporting a hardening tendency to spots with futures attendy at an advance of 162-64d. The tone was well sustained during the day, and the close marked a further improved of 2-64d—a gain 4 points for the day. Telegrams from abroad say there is some fear of the bureau report due tomorrow, and the strength is attributable to apprehension regarding its purport. The statistician in Washington telegraphs the exchange here that the cotton report on the 10th is on cotton planting and contemplated area. This is awaited with somewhat of anxiety which is reflected in the uneasiness of the market, at an advance of 3 points for the nearer positions and 566 points for the later, which has been well sustained during the forenoon, and at midday the lurking timidity of sellers has put prices at the highest so far for the day, August selling 7.83 and June at 7.55. From the higher prices of the earlier afternoon when 7.66 was reached for August, values have receded to the close, which is steady. Trading during the afternoon was slightly more animated, but without special feature, and the market continues a walting one. It is difficult to awaken sentiment in favor of much-higher prices amongst local operators, and every advance finds many who are pessimistic as to the permanence of an improvement. Transactions are, however, only of a temporary nature, dealers being chary of long identification with either side of the market. Comparatively little outside business is doing.

THE CHICAGO MARKET

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions. CHICAGO, May 9-Wheat today lacked the vigor which distinguished it yesterday. It had an important stimulous, but at the same time there were develop ments which counted decidedly against the price. The Illiands crop report made a sensationally bad showing— immense destruction of the winter wheat, the area be ing only 1,045,090 acres, against 1,750,900 acres last year and the condition only 70 per cent, against 90 per cent a year ago, and the statistician says that the promise a year ago, and the statistician says that the promise was only 47 per cent of last year's yield. But to offset this came reports of generous rains in France and Austria-Hungary, immense shipments from Baltic ports and some halting and hesitation in sales. There was also heavy realizing, Cudaby being a free seller and promptly meeting about all the demand. Eggleston sold liberally. The failure of the Chemical National bank, reported in the morning parers, also had some effect in checking the bull enthupers, also had some effect in checking the bull enthusiasm. The Vienna and Australian failures also cut some figure. Pardridge seemed to be a big buver some igure. Pardringe seemed to be a big buyer through brokers, and it is thought that his short lines have been greatly reduced during the past few days. About noon Schwartz-Dupee got a special cable saying that, while rains had fallen in France, they had come too late to do much good, and that the French country warkets ware near with refers the present of the country warkets ware near with refers the present of the country warkets were near with refers the present of the country warkets were near with refers the present of the country warkets were near with refers the present of the country warkets were near the country warkets were near the country warkets were near the country was the country that the country was the country was the country warkets were near the country was the coun markets were poor with prices improved some. There was a recovery before the close on some fresh reports of rust in the south, and a half belief that the rumon of 70 on Missouri crop may be true. There was proba-bly a little manipulation on it also. The government crop report on the condition of winter wheat is due tomorrow afternoon. Conservative traders are in-clined to wait for it before doing much. The opening was $\(\frac{1}{2}c\) higher than yesterday's closing for July, but ruled weak, and prices declined to a point 1 \(\frac{1}{2}c\) below the top figure reached early in the morning, then Corn was quite firm at the start, and the first trades Corn was quite firm at the start, and the first trades were at \(\sigma_{\text{total}}\) each advance. vanced prices for them. Light offerings and moderate buying orders also contributed to the strength. The same tactics were pursued as for some time past. Whenever the shorts tried to cover the market advanced rapidly, and when any one tried to sell it dropped, the longs not caring to take the offerings. Some disposition among holders to realize caused a slight reaction, and then the market ruled steady for a time with a downward tendency. There was very little doing during the balance or the session, the market being in almost stagnant condition for everything and fairly steady. A more confident tone was imparted to vanced prices for them. Light offerings and mod denig in the season of the confident tone was imparted to the cash market on an improvement in the inquiry on both domestic and foreign account.

The Red Men May Decide to Erect an Or-phans' Home-An Atlantian Will Be Elected Great Sachem.

The great council of Red Men of the of Georgia is now in session in the Central City, and, as usual, Atlanta is ea hand with a big delegation. Some of the noble Red Men went from here on Monday, but the greater portion of the delegation left this morning and at noon. Last night a number of degrees were conferred.

Some of the noble Red Men leaving the city there was an exodus of Yaarabs and Knights Templar to Augusta to the meeting of the nobles and knights in that city.
The Yaarabs will confer a number of degrees on some of the knights, and tommor-low the Knights Templar will go into ses-

The election of officers of the great council of Red Men will occur today, and an Atlantian will be very probably given the highest office in the gift of the great council. The man is Richard Owens, of Modoc tribe No. 3, who is now great senior sag-amore; his next office will be that of great amore; his next office will be that of great sachem. Two other officers of the great council, who are now in Macon, are Great Keeper of Records Jake Emmel and Great Keeper of Records Jake Emmel and Great Keeper of Wampum G. E. Johnson.

The great council will have a lot of important business to come before it at this string. For the past several months the great council has had a man on the road working up subscriptions for a proposed orphans' home. At the last session of the council in Rome a resolution looking towards the erection of an orphans' home was introduced. It was very desirable to have the expression of the Red. Men of the state in regard to the establishment of such a home, and in order to secure this a man was put on the road to get subscriptions. It is understood that a very fine amount has been put down on paper. If the great council decides upon the erection of an orphans' home it will probably be located in Atlanta.

At the last meeting another feature, that of the establishment of the office of an exemplifier of degrees, was discussed, but not disposed of. It is settled, however, that a team will be put into the field to exemplify the different degrees. Among those who left for Macon today and yesterday are:

The Shriners and Knights Leave.

Yesterday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock a carload of shriners and knights left here for Augusta, where both orders will hold pow-wows for a couple of days.

A couple of knights errant came in from other towns and joined the Atlanta knights and nobles. One was Grand Commander of the State McElhaney, of Columbus, Ga, and the other was Major A. W. Wilton, proprietor of the Armstrong hotel in Rome, Ga.

THE ORPHANS' PICNIC.

The Children of the Decatur Home Will

The picnic of the Orphans' Home at Desatur will take place tomorrow in the beautiful grove near the home. The occasion will be one of great happiness to the little orphans and to all those who lend encouragement to this noble cause.

Onite a number of people will ge form

Quite a number of people will go from Atlanta to the picnic. The train leaves the union depot promptly at 8:55 o'clock.

Everybody who desires to encourage the officers of the home in their noble work in caring for these fatherless and motherless little ones is invited. If it is so that you can-not possibly go, you can send baskets full of such things as you may see fit to provide and leave them at Durand's restaurant by 8 o'clock. There will be a committee to receive them and transport them to the picnic grounds. There will be transportation at Decatur to convey all visitors to the home. Take an outing tomorrow, encourage the little orphans and see what work is being done by the home.

Green Goods.

Don't be tempted to invest in them. You will get into trouble every time and in the end poverty and disgrace. The genuine Uncle Sam's green goods are the only ones of value. —They make you rich, especially when used to purchase Simmon's Liver Regulator to cure your Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Constipation or Biliousness, or drive away Malaria. Don't be tempted to take anything else in place of the Regulator.

ANOTHER INTERESTING RUMOR.

It Is Said That Hon. W. H. Venable Will Run for the Senate. The latest item of interest in the political talk of the day, which seems to have been revived with unusual activity in the opening of the legislative fight, is the rumored willingness of Hon. W. H. Venable to allow the use of his name as a candidate for the senate from the thirty-fifth senatorial district in the next election.

It is true it is a long time off, as it does not take place until a year from next fall, but it is l'ulton county's time for the senate, and on account of the peculiar circumstances surrounding the race before the last, resulting in the election of Mr. Todd, of Clayton, many of Mr. Venable's friends have insisted that he owed it to himself and the them to relate the reset time.

have insisted that he owed it to himself and to them to make the race next time.

It will be remembered that the trouble at that time was in Mr. Todd's contention that it was not Fulton county's time. The nominating convention had disagreed and two tickets were put in the field, one being Mr. Venable and the other Mr. Todd. There were many surrounding circumstances from which Mr. Venable suffered.

As it is Fulton's time next, Mr. Venable's friends are already prging him for the race. He has not announced his determination in the matter, but it may be that he will be in the next senatorial race in this district.

The Opening of the Campaign.

To open the campaign with any hopes of speedy success, attack the enemy, malaria, before it has a chance to intreach. An obstinate foe 'twill prove if you don't go right at it. If you are prudent, too, you will have fortified, upon the first intimation of its presence in your neighborhood. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the medicinal ammunition that you require. Every form of malarial fever yields to this fine preventive and remedy.

A FIERY ITALIAN.

A POOR WOMAN'S AWFUL EXPERIENCE

Afraid to Move or Speak for Fear That Her Husband Would Kill Her-The Husband Locked Up.

An olive-complexioned, brown-haired, black eyed, nervous mannered typical Italian, fine wood carrer and a former employe of Piantini, who shot himself in a room with his sister-in-law, held his wife a prisoner in a room at his home throughout the day yesterday, beat her until her body was black and blue with bruises and would have killed her, his neighbors say, but for a constant watch which was kept upon him.

The bloodthirsty fellow countryman of Vigil is Annibel Rotolli, who lives in a cottage on Edgewood avenue adjoining the cyclorama. He has been employed for a number of months as a wood carver at Pi-antini's place on Courtland avenue at a fine salary. He is a fine workman, having learned his trade in his native country. He has no family save a wife. He does not drink, but has a peppery temperament and when he gets wrought up he is flery and uncontrollable.

Rotolli has had no work during the pres ent week and has spent the time making it interesting for his wife. Neighbors of his say that he is exceedingly quarrelsome and is continually fussing at his wife. Yesterday morning the neighbors noticed that he was giving his wife a severe round and had her is continually fusing at his wife. Yesterday morning the neighbors noticed that he was giving his wife a severe round and had her so terrorized that she was afraid to leave the house to call for help.

Mrs. Izzell is a next door neighbor to the Italians and she was among the first to notice that Rotolli was bullying his wife. Fearing that the big Italian would kill his wife, Mrs. Izzell sat on her back porch throughout the morning watching him. Several times she saw him strike his wife. Once he gave her a terrible blow with an iron instrument. At another time Rotolli threw a heavy box at his wife, knocking her to the floor. Many times he caught and beat her. The poor woman was so badly frightened that she did not dare open her mouth.

Once she evaded the watchfulness of her husband long enough to run to the back door and to call out to Mrs. Izzell and ask if she might spend the night there, as she knew her husband would kill her if she slept at home. Rotolli hear her, and becoming more deeply enraged than ever, dragged her into the room and again attacked her. Mrs. Rotolli seated herself by a window, thinking that her husband would not strike her while in full view of the street and sat there for two hours. All the while Rotolli cursed and threatened to kill her. Grabbing up a hatchet, he started toward her and tried to drag her from the window. She struggled desperately, Rotolli striking at her all the while. Mrs. Izzell sent for her husband when she saw that the Italian seemed bent on bloodshed. Mr. Izzell hurried after an officer and while he was gone Rotolli continued to assault his wife.

Learning that an officer had been sent for, Rotolli ran out and pulling off his coat, threatened to lick the entire vicinity and the policemen combined. The noise and excitement had increased to such an extent that a half dozen people started after officers and about the same time Patrolmen Ivy, Whatley and Call Officer Beavers arrived at the place. Rotolli is badly bruised about the body and is exhausted on account of th

The offer made by us to guarantee a cure or refund the money is genuine and without reserve, the only exception being in desperately severe or incurable casos. This is no more than fair. The fact that many advertising doctors claim to cure all diseases does not make it so. The sensible public know very well that certain diseases in advanced stages are incurable and the assertion that they are does not carry any weight and the person or persons making such a statement is set down as a quack and impostor. We know that we give the latest and most scientific treatment for diseases in our specialty and the offer we make is one that proves to the people what we can do and what we claim. I submit herewith reports from the treasurer and the librarian which present a statement of the affairs of the library during the past twelve months and its present statement of the affairs of the library during the past twelve months and its present condition.

The facts thus made apparent must be gratifying to every friend of the institution. They show a substantial progress in the material prosperity of the library. Its financial condition was never before so good. The number of its books has been largely increased since the last annual meeting. It will be observed that while the number of members on the roll is smaller than it was a year ago, receipts from membership dues are much greater. We have now an active paying list, it having been deemed wise jolicy to top off dead timber.

It is a pleasure to me to give official recognition of the faithful, efficient and untiring services of my associates in the board. To serve the library has been with them a labor of love. I have been a witness of their ardor, unselfishness and devotion in this cause, and they deserve the grateful regard of every member of the institution and of the community through which its bereficent influences stream.

It has been my good fortune to be familiar, as boy and man, with the library and its work for twenty-three years, and I am confident that its fortunes have never been in the hands of more devoted and interligent guardians than those who have upheld the hands of your president without.

The State Dental Association of Georgia began its regular annual session yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the Kimball house. There were two sessions yesterday, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon Representatives from all parts of the state were present, and there were over fifty members at both meetings. Dr. S. M. Roach, of Savannah, president of the association, was absent and Vice President A. Williams presided. Secretary Mc-Kee, of Americus, was on hand.

The morning session amounted to but little more than the regular routine work, the appointment of committees and getting ready generally for the business to come There were four applicants to practice flentistry and four of them were accepted.

The feature of the afternoon's meeting was the admitting of a lady dentist to practice. The lady is Miss A. Irene Yo-kum, of Savannah. She is without a doubt one of the finest dentists in the state for the time she has spent acquiring her knowledge of her chosen profession. She is a graduate from the Alabama college of dental surgery, and strange to say, took took first honor in everything that she studied.

Miss Yokum has been interested in, and has made dentistry a study for fully five years. She is a niece of Dr. A. O. Best, and has an office in Augusta. It was while staying about her uncle's office that the only lady dentist in the state acquired a knowledge of dental operations and gradually became fascinated by the work which she intends to make her life profession. She passed a very fine examination before the dental board in Washington, D. C. some time ago and was congratulated by the professors upon her ability as a tooth doctor.

Miss Okum, as stated, presented herself Miss Okum, as stated, presented herself for examination yesterday and went through the ordeal with remarkable ease. The association will be in session for three days. Today will be the session for three days. Today will be the session for clinics. The hours of meeting will be from 8 o'clock in the afternoon and from 8 o'clock in the afternoon and from 8 o'clock an ight until 10 o'clock. There will be some interesting operations showing the great advance in dental surgery in the few years past. The sessions are open to the public. The executive committee has decided that hereafter all the annual meetings of the association shall occur in Atlanta.

A Full Train Load.

A full trainload of about two hundred oyster shuckers leave Biloxi, Miss., and Mobile today via the Louisville and Nashville, the Atlanta and West Point and the Richmond and Danville railroads for Baltimore. They will pass through Atlanta tomorrow morning. This large movement makes the trip twice a year by the Piedmont Air-Line, and a solid through train is furnished them and they are run through in a hurry.

gia-What People You Know Are Doing.

A very lovely highnoon wedding united Mr. Drury J. Powers and Miss Mamie O'Keefe at the Central Presbyterian church yesterday.

The profusion of roses used in the church decorations, the spring-like and dainty air-iness of the bridesmaids' gowns gave a delightful air of purity and fragrance to the occasion. Palms were used about the altar and La France roses were the flowers chosen for decoration, and arranged with unusual and effective grace.

The bride was extremely pretty in a traveling gown of dark cloth with a harmonizing and becoming hat. Her flowers were bride roses.

brimmed leghorns, trimmed with pink roses, and La France roses formed their big bouquets.

Dr. Strickler performed the ceremony with graceful eloquence. The bridal party was as following: Ushers, Mr. Wallace Kirkpatrick, Mr. Robert Swift, Mr. Richard A. Harris, Mr. Joseph Bowen, Mr. E. B. Hornady and Mr. Porter Woodson; bridesmalds, Miss Maud Scruggs, Miss Ethel Toy, Miss Lille Slaton. Miss Hattle Smart, Miss Ruth Cheatham, Miss Erskine Richmond; groomsmen, Mr. Virgil Powers, of Macon; Mr. Azel Freeman, of Macon; Mr. Dean Nesbit, Mr. Whit Collier, Mr. Crowell Campbell. Miss Maude O'Keefe was maid of honor, and Mr. Horace Powers was best man.

After the ceremony the bridal party were entertained at a delightful luncheon at the home of the bride. Here the decorations showed that refined, artistic taste for which this family is noted.

Mr. and Mrs. Powers left for their wedding journey north at haif-past 2 o'clock. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends at the Normandie.

Miss O'Keefe is a charming girl, extremely pretty and graceful in a refined blonde way, and possessed of great musical and artistic talents. She is clever and thoroughly cultivated, and she has a lovely womanly mature which has made her a host of warm friends.

Mr. Powers is the son of Hon. Virgil Pow-

This report would be incomplete without reference to the librarian, whose fidelity and efficiency are recognized and honored most by those who have had the best opportunities to observe daily how well she has discharged the trust confided to her.

The present assistant secretary, during his brief incumbency of that office has shown an appreciation of its responsibilities and aptitude for its requirements which deserve especial commendation.

In retiring from the presidency and the directory I desire to return my sincere thanks to the board and officers of the library, without whose faithful and kindly aid a pleasant service would have been hard, and, perhaps, irritating. As a member of the association I hope to help forward to the limit of my capacity every movement which tends towards its improvement, and to see it day by day and year by year grow greater, stronger and in every way better qualified for the great work it should do in this community.

Messrs, A. V. Gude, C. F. Rice and A. S. Walker were appointed a committee on nominations. While they were deliberating short speeches were made by Mr. R. A. Hemphill, Mr., W. H. Nutting and Mr. Parker.

The committee reported the following

Mrs. Owsley, of Chicago, is the guest of Mrs. Burton Smith. Mrs. Owsley, as Miss Lucy Pace, was one of the leading belies of Georgia and she has many warm friends and dmirers in Atlanta.

Miss Jennie Nichols, of Woodstock, Ga., is the guest of Miss Janie Stephens on West Peachtree street.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cox had a number of friends at tea on last evening. The table appointments were perfect, the menu exquisite and the delicate consideration and warm-hearted hospitality of Mr. and Mrs.

Lieutenant Magnus O. Hollis, wife and child. of Fort Sherman, Ida., are visiting relatives and friends in Atlanta. At present they are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Walker, at the Grant house.

The Sisters of Mercy, 86 Loyd street, return thanks to the following contributors to the bazaar to be held for their benefit in the last week of this month: Hon. R. B. Bullock, S. M. Inman, Walter R. THEY WILL MEET AGAIN TODAY.

The County Commissioners Will Hold as Extra Session This Morning.

There will be an extra session of the board of county commissioners this morning.

When the last regular meeting of the board adjourned on last Wednesday it was agreed to hold another session of the board today for the purpose of discussing several matters then pending.

Since that time the members of the board have been over the county for the process.

Since that time the members of the board have been over the county for the purpose of inspecting the roads and have also visited the almshoïse in the unpper part of the county on the invitation of Dr. Hope, the superintendent.

It was agreed at the last meeting of the board that the members were to visit the county barracks for the purpose of seeing the tank which was recently put up as a temporary structure. It failed to give satisfaction and the board at its last meeting refused to order a payment.

On motion of Commissioner Collier it was agreed that the commissioners should visit the barracks in a body and ascertain for themselves the condition of the tank before taking any definite action.

The meeting of the board this morning will be very important.

Howard Lucky, the Negro Who Is Charged with Burning Reinhardt's Ark.

Howard Lucky, a burly negro, charged with burning a building in the western part of the city, known as "Reinhardt's Ark," was on trial in the criminal branch of the superior court yesterday.

The trial was begun last Monday afternoon, but the number of witnesses to be examined was such that the testimony was and to concluded until yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. The evidence was very unsatisfactory and the greater part of it was of a very conflicting character.

The defendant is represented by Solicitor Thomas, of the city court, whose duty ordinals.

Thomas, or the city court, whose duty ordinarily is to prosecute and not to defend prisoners. The solicitor, however, appeared to be perfectly at home in the defense of his client and spoke for nearly an hour and a half in plea of his innocence.

This was on account of the gravity of the charge which carries with it, in the event of conviction without recommendation, the charge which carries with it, in the event of conviction without recommendation, the penalty of death, the arson having been committed within the limits of the city.

The trial of the case will be resumed this morning. Solicitor Hill, for the prosecution, will occupy the time of the court for about an hour. It will then go to the jury with the charge of Judge Clark, and a verdict will be obtained in all probability by noon. During the trial of the case yesterday the courtroom was crowded with spectators. There will no doubt be a large number on hand to hear Solicitor Hill's argument this morning.

calp, Scaly and Crusty. Terrible Itching Three Other Remedies Fail. Cured by Cuticura for $1.75.

I have used the Cuticura Remedies for scalp diseases. My hair was failing badly, my foretop becoming crusty or scaly, and itched so badly that I could not keep my hands of my head. If I combed off those scales, a sticky or gummy substance would coze out of the skiu and form another crust. After trying two or three remedies, I seat to you for your book; and after reading it I used one box of Cuticura, one cake of Cuticura Soap, and took one bottle of the Cuticura Resolvent, which cured me. I feel grateful to you for the remedies, and have recomme ded them to my friends.

Bad Eczema Cured

Three years ago my little boy had a terrible sore on his chest, four inches across, besides other forms of eczema. His doctor had tried several remedies with no effect, so I began to use the Cuticura Remedies, In two weeks his chest was healed, and the skin white and smooth again. I continued the Cuticura Resolvent some time longer, until he was quite well, and even now give it to him once in a while if he has any blood trouble. I am never without Cuticura Remedies, all three. of J. H. Nunnally and Robert Wiley, of said state and county, shows that they, their associates, successors or assigns, desire to be incorporated for the term of twenty years, with the privilege of renewal at the expiration of that time, under the name of "THE NLNNALLY COMPANY."

The object of said company is pecuniary gain to its stockholders.

The particular business proposed to be carried on is the manufacture and sale of candy, at wholesale and retail, and to buy, manufacture, sell or handle stich articles as are usually sold by confectioners, either at wholesale or retail.

Petitioners further desire the privilege of dealing at wholesale or retail in bleycles and typewriters, either or both, of any and all kinds; to buy, sell, exchange and dispose of the same, together with such articles, connections and attachments as are now or may hereafter be generally curried in the business of dealing in bleycles and typewriters.

Petitioners desire the privilege of conducting all of said business together, or each or any of the same separately, as they, their associates, successors, or assigns may determine and in connection with either or all to borrow money, issue bonds, and buy, own and sell real estate.

The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty thousand ($20,000) dollars, divided into shares of one hundred ($100) dollars each, but petitioners desire the privilege of increasing the capital stock at any time to an amount not exceeding fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars. The principal office of said company shall be in Atlanta, said state and county, but said company desires the privilege of doing business outside of the state, and of establishing branch offices in or out of the state.

Petitioners pray that they, their associates, successors, or assigns, may have all the corporate authority and powers as are now by the laws of the state of Georgia conferred upon corporations of like character.

And petitioners will ever pray, etc.

HELP WANTED-Male.

WANTED-Young man to take position as bookkeeper. Must be able to furnish $1,000 bond. Apply Kahn Bros., S Whitehall street. WANTED—A printer; one thoroughly com-petent to take charge of a small office and make up a 32-page magazine. References must be given. Address ii. W. P., Consti-tution office, city.

The hog crop really is short this year and the prospect of lower prices is not bright. One thing will bring the price of hog products down and that is for the south to go to raising its own hogs. Statistics show that the west is not raising any more pork now than for years past. But all the time the number of pig eaters is increasing. There are 11,000,000 more pig eaters in this country than there were eight years back. Prices are just one-fourth higher too than they were then.

For many years the crop of hogs has kept pace with the corn crop. There has been a relation between the two crops. This varied some but it was not large and generally speaking there has been a certain number of hogs to a hundred acres of corn year after year. The corn area in the west is standing still. Away up in the northwest the farmers are wheat growers and they do not raise hogs for the packers. In the big hog states, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, only three-quarters of a million more hogs were raised this year than in 1885, and the corn area is three-quarters of a million acres more than WANTED-Experienced floor-walker. were raised this year than in 1885, and the corn area is three-quarters of a million acres more than in 1885. This is a small difference and doesn't figure considerably. So neither the corn crop nor the hog product is going to increase in these states. Both will be apt to stand about where they are. Lowa, Kansas and Nebraska are the only western states where any material increase in the swine supply seems probable, with the exception of the southern states, where the hog will flourish if attention is given to him or if he gets half a snowing. The rapid increase of the urban population necessitates the increased production of dairy and market vegetable products, and the pork crop is shortened.

It is suggested seriously that if the south-WANTED—Traveling sales:uen, or have fine side line. Bouquet Cigar Co., Lynchburg, Ya. Na. Such the Bouquet Cigar Co., Lynchburg, Ya. apr18 lm

SALARY or commission to agents to handle the patent Chemical Ink Erasing Pencil. The most useful and novel invention of the age. Erases ink thoroughly in two seconds. Works liks magic. 200 to 500 per cent profit. Agents making $50 per week. We also want a general agent to take charge of territory and appoint subagents. A rare chance to make money. Write for terms and specimen of erasing. Monroe Eraser Manufacturing Co., X., 392, La Crosse, Wis. and market vegetable products, and the pork crop is shortened.

It is suggested seriously that if the southern states and especially Georgia would take to growing bogs, for packing purposes, good money would be made out of it. Here are the yearly average export prices of pork running back over a period of twenty-three years: 1870, 15.4 cents; 1875, 12.1 cents; 1880, 6.9 cents; 1885, 8.6 cents; 1890, 7.4 cents, and in 1893, 10.3 cents. So it appears that the price has increased considerably in the last thirteen years. This increase has been stendy, and it is a guarantee that hog growing will be profitable. Georgia could well raise a couple of million hogs a year for packing. That would require two and a half million acres more to be planted in corn than the farmers grow now. In the west corn pays better fed to the hogs than sold by the bushel.

GENTRY'S CELLMATE,

Murderer Hill, Who Prevented George Gentry Escaping Many Times,

GOES TO THE PEN FOR LIFE.

In Atlanta Last Night En Route-Gentry Tried to Kill Him, and Laid for Him
Two Nights Ago.

A very large, fat man, with shaggy beard and bushy eyebrows, who on no less than fifteen occasions prevented the escape from Carrollton jail of George Gentry, the brother and partner in crime of the notorious Asbury Gentry, spent last night in the police station here on his way to the Chattahoochee brick camps to spend the rest of his life.

The fat man was W. J. Hill, a farmer, forty years old, who, with all his shaggy beard and hair and eyebrows, is not such a bad looking man. He has very mild blue eyes, and despite the bigness and roughness, his voice is as gentle as a woman's aimost. Murderer and life convict as he is, Hill is a hero after a fashion, for he has lived in constant danger of death during the past eight months.

The story he tells, and which is vouched for by good authority, is a rather remarkable and unusual one. Two years ago, Hill killed Joe Perkins, a young white man, in a row in which Perkins and his brother tried to kill Hill. Hill, being the better man, killed one of the boys and terribly wounded the other. He himself was severely cut. He was arrested and found guilty with a recommendation to mercy and was sentenced for life. He appealed the case to the supreme court, but last gunty with a recommendation to mercy and was sentenced for life. He appealed the case to the supreme court, but last week the higher court affirmed the decision of the lower one, and Hill was resentenced to the pen for life.

During all these proceedings, Hill was in the Carrollton jail, and for eight months was a cellmate of George Gentry's. The experience was one he will never forget. He found Gentry worse than a wild animal, continually plotting and planning to escape. Hill had been in the cell but a few days when Gentry succeeded in cutting out of the cell, and was in a fair way to gain his liberty when Hill alarmed the jallers, and prevented the consummation of the plan.

Soon afterward another, and this time a nearly successful attempt at escape was and of Contract of the cell, and was a problem of the plan.

Soon afterward another, and this time a nearly successful attempt at escape was made. Gentry got out of his cell and would have been out of the jail in a few moments had not Hill caught and held him. He had a desperate fight with Gentry, but being much the stronger man of the two, Hill held the prisoner until the jailer came to his relief. Gentry threatened to kill Hill for his part in the affair, and more than once started to carry out his threat. The two men slept in the same cell, and Hill was in a continual state of apprehension. One night while he was sleeping. Gentry assaulted and beat him in a murderous manner. Gentry made a constant study of escaping, and, perhaps, as many as twenty times attempted to do so. Nearly every time he was discovered by Hill and prevented from doing so. This caused him to conceive a dealy hatred for Hill, and during the last three months of the latter's stay in the jail, although they slept together, the two men never once spoke.

last three months of the latter's stay in the jail, although they slept together, the two men never once spoke.

Two nights before Hill left the jail, on last Saturday night, Gentry made a final effort to get even. He tried to bribe a Mr. Whitmore to bring him a knife, offering him his overcoat if he would do so. He made no attack on Hill, however, as he had no weapon and the latter was deeply relieved when he was once out of the jail.

"I haven't had a moment's peace," said he. "I couldn't sleep, and had to be always on my guard for fear that Gentry would take some mean advantage of me." Hill was brought to Atlanta by Transfer Guard Gus Starnes and Deputy Sheriff Cobb, of Carroll. Gentry was given a sentence of five years, b't when asked to come with the guard yesterday, refused to do so, as he has appealed his case. Sheriff Cobb thinks that Gentry is not playing for a new trial so much as for an opportunity to get away.

"He was awful glad to see Hill leave," said Mr. Cobb, last night, "for he thinaks he will now have no trouble in getting away from us.' But we intend to keep linesef."

A New Discovery.

A gold-bearing formation, connected as soft, porous, granular quartz. The rock is larger in some places than others, and portions of it contain gold. The vein runs through six lots of land. Cuts have been made at six different places on the hills, and seem to be rich in gold at every place. The formation and rocks are the same at every point. I will obligate myself to show gold at numerous places along this formation, running a distance of a mile and a half. The gold seems to increase at every point as we go down.

I do not wish to sell my entire interest in the property, but will sell the mineral interest on some of the lots of land, or make a reasonable price on the whole and sell a fair share of stock.

The mine is in Paulding county, six miles west of Acworth, Ga.

I will be at the mine after the 10th of May, or may be addressed at No. 2 South Brook street, Atlanta, Ga.

To the Ladies of Atlanta:

You have one of the most delightful cities of the South, with a climate as perfect as any in this broad land. Your merchants are wide-awake men, always ready to take advantage of anything that is conducive to the general good; in short, you seem prosperous and happy. We desire to make your homes more so by helping you to obtain a more perfect knowledge of the finest line of goods ever made by any bakery in America.

You will receive, with our compliments, samples of Langdon's Reception Flakes. Lunch Milk and Victoria Wafers, in a package. We hope the same will please you. Do not allow your grocers to put you off by saying they have something just as good as Langdon's; insist upon having the best only.
